

Year 5 Miners Visit

As part of this term's Heritage Project, Year 5 have been learning all about William Reynolds and his impact on the Industrial Revolution. We have learnt all about his impact on coal mining in the local area, and have been thinking about what life would be like down the mine during William Reynold's time. To help us with this, we were visited by three men who used to be coal miners in both Telford and Cannock. They described to us how they felt working down the pit, what the conditions were like and what could go wrong. They brought along lots of equipment and photographs to show us and we even got to try some on! Before the visitors came, we thought of a list of questions to ask them as a Year group, and we then worked together to film the interviews from different angles. Since then, we have edited our footage and had it on display during the Heritage event.
